Aquatic Safety Inspector Recertification

If it's foreseeable, it's preventable

Faced with the potential for multi-million-dollar lawsuits, pool owners and operators are increasingly aware of the benefits of being proactive in assessing and managing risk in the aquatic environment. The Lifesaving Society believes that many incidents are foreseeable and therefore preventable.

Who should attend the Aquatic Safety Inspector Recertification course?

Currently certified Lifesaving Society Aquatic Safety Inspectors who wish to recertify should attend this course. Updated checklists will be provided and a comprehensive review will be done of the new Regulations effecting public pools.

Prerequisite: Lifesaving Society Aquatic Safety Inspector certifications.

What you learn

- The legislation and operating practices that dictate the current operating standards of aquatic facilities in Ontario.
- Architectural plan review process and checklist review.
- A review of the Lifesaving Society new Inspection checklists
- A review of new inspection equipment used on safety inspections
- Identification of hazards and non-conforming aspects of aquatic facilities operations.

What you get

- Participants receive the Lifesaving Society's Aquatic Safety Inspector Recertification Workbook and the Safety Inspection Checklists.
- Those who participate will receive Lifesaving Society Aquatic Safety Inspector certification.
